AUGUST PERFORMANCE REVIEW

The Ghanaian Student Ambassador Teaching Program

From Ambassadors to Educators: When Young People Step Into the Classroom

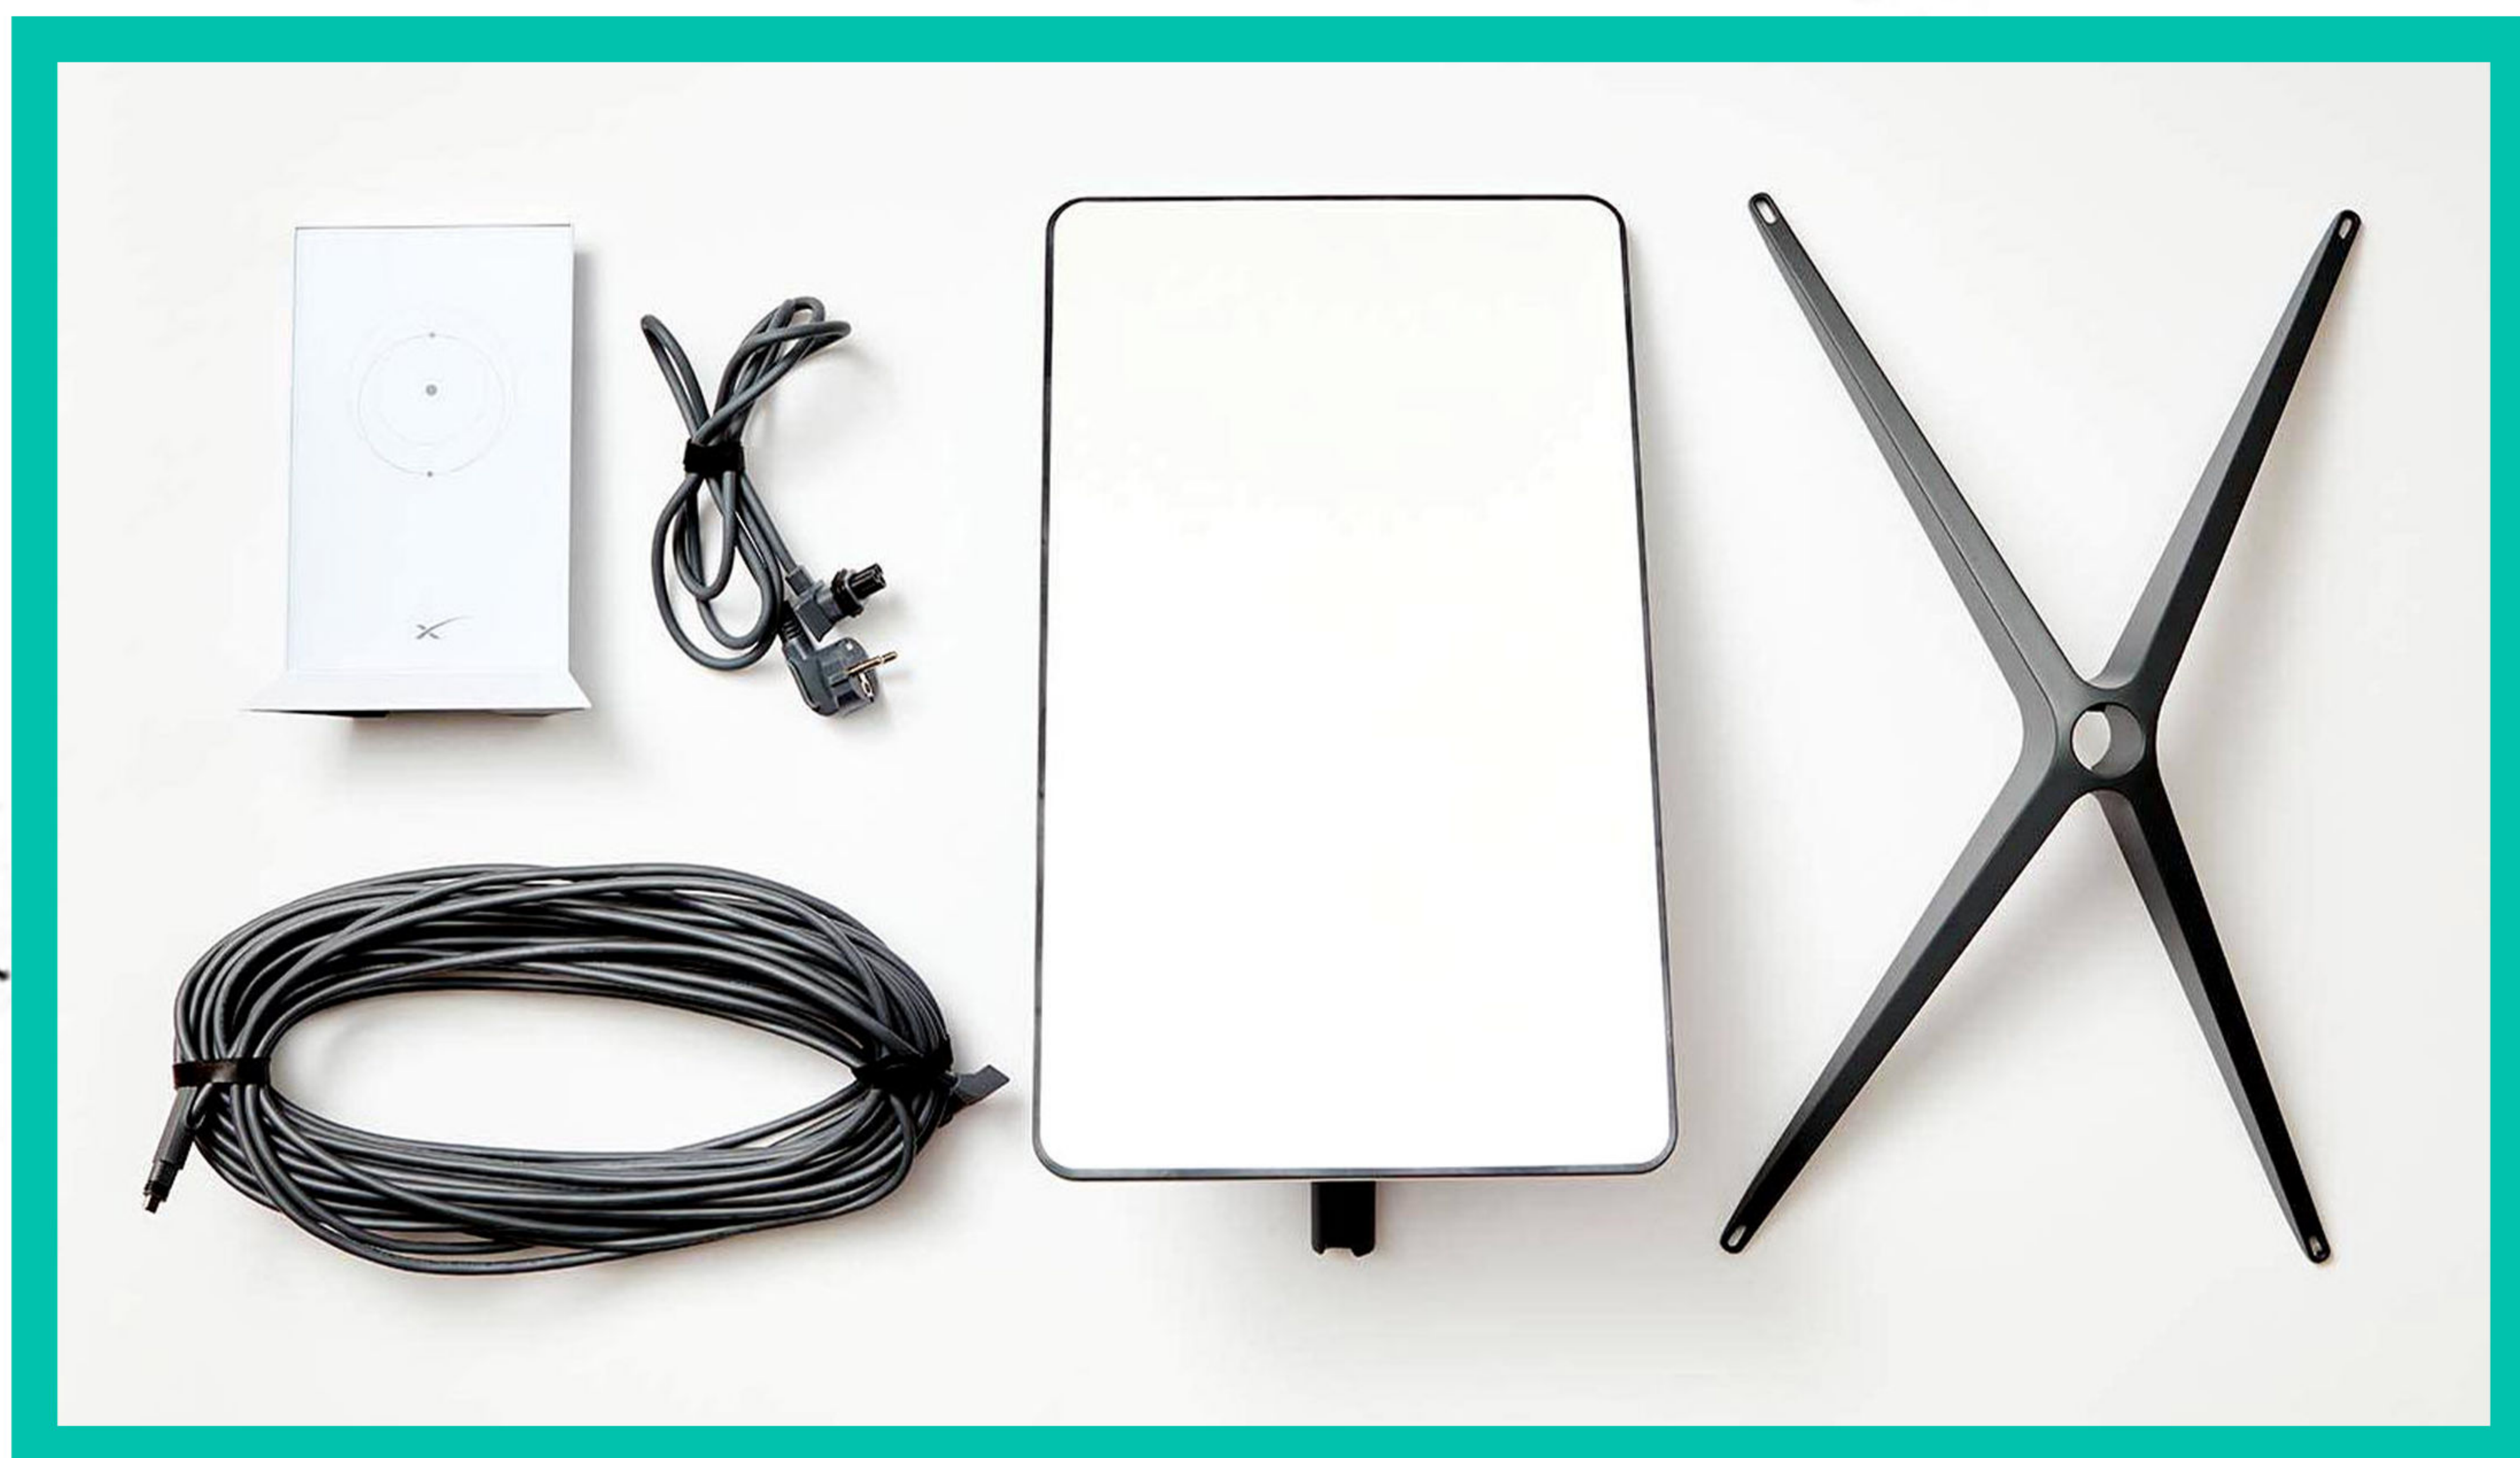

In August, SmartKids Ghana witnessed an exciting transformation through our Ghanaian Student Ambassador Teaching Pilot Program. Our ambassadors, who have traditionally supported our programs as volunteers and advocates, stepped into a new role: EDUCATORS. For the first time, they had the opportunity to independently plan and deliver lessons, engage with scholars, lead classroom activities, and experience what it truly means to stand at the front of a classroom. What began as an opportunity to gain teaching experience quickly became a powerful lesson in confidence, responsibility, and leadership. From overcoming first-day nerves to learning how to keep scholars engaged and adapting lessons when things did not go as planned, our ambassadors experienced the realities of teaching firsthand and grew through each experience.

But this pilot is about much more than delivering a lesson. It is about creating opportunities for young Ghanaians to lead, serve, and inspire. With every session, our ambassadors are developing valuable skills in communication, problem-solving, time management, teamwork, and public speaking, while learning the importance of patience, preparation, and adaptability. At the same time, our scholars are seeing young Ghanaian role models take the lead in their classrooms, creating a powerful connection between educator and learner. Seeing an ambassador confidently teach can inspire a scholar to believe, "I can do this too." As we continue this pilot, we are excited to see our ambassadors grow from supporters of education into educators, mentors, and community leaders and we believe this is only the beginning of the impact they can create.

AUGUST PERFORMANCE REVIEW

Starlink Device Purchase

We are thrilled to celebrate a meaningful milestone in our efforts to strengthen digital learning in Ghana. The Bishop Fenwick SmartKids Africa Club successfully raised funds to purchase two Starlink devices for SmartKids Ghana. This generous initiative will provide improved and more reliable internet connectivity to support our Zoom Teaching Program and other digital learning activities, helping scholars participate more fully in virtual lessons and access valuable educational resources.

The contribution from the Bishop Fenwick Club is a powerful example of how students can become changemakers beyond their own communities. By raising funds for these devices, the club is helping SmartKids Ghana create stronger learning connections between teachers and scholars while reducing barriers caused by limited internet access. We are incredibly grateful to the students, staff, and supporters of Bishop Fenwick for championing this initiative and investing in the future of education in Ghana. Their generosity is helping us move closer to a future where every scholar can learn, connect, and thrive through technology.

Arrival of Alumni Giving Circle Product Supplies

We are excited to announce the arrival of teaching and learning supplies donated through the Alumni Giving Circle to support their upcoming Math and Science project for 30 scholars. These resources will help instructors deliver more engaging, practical, and hands-on lessons while giving scholars the opportunity to apply concepts beyond the classroom. The supplies include multimeters, stopwatches, measuring cups, scales, pipettes, safety goggles, mathematical sets, and thermometers. With these essential tools, teachers will be better equipped to conduct demonstrations, experiments, and interactive activities that strengthen scholars' understanding of mathematics and science. We are grateful to the Alumni Giving Circle for investing in practical learning opportunities that inspire curiosity, build problem-solving skills, and make STEM education more meaningful for our scholars.

HrdbyAbenah

We are delighted to share the successful completion of the three-day Career Development Program at Osei Kyeretwie Senior High School (OKESS), a collaborative initiative between SmartKids Ghana and HrdbyAbenah. The program created a valuable space for students to explore their interests, understand their strengths, build confidence, and gain practical skills to help them prepare for life beyond senior high school.

Through engaging workshops, interactive discussions, career exploration activities, and leadership sessions led by Mrs. Emanuela Kusi, students were encouraged to think intentionally about their future and make informed decisions about their academic and career pathways. We are grateful to HrdbyAbenah for their continued partnership and commitment to empowering young people. With the OKESS session successfully completed, we look forward to concluding this year's Career Development Program with a final session for university students in September, extending these opportunities to the next stage of their educational and professional journey.
